Precierie Burki and his wife, Mme. Fannie Julia Burki, are a worthy French couple. They have run a little bakery with a big business in French rolls, twisted bread and other Parisian bakestuffs for many years at 149 South Fifth avenue.

For almost as many years Peter Hennes, a worthy German painter, has lived with his family across the hall from the Burkis in the two-story building, and the relations of the two families have been of the most cordial till last Friday.

There is blood on the moon in South Fifth avenue just now.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Bussy, of 152 Woos ter street, went visiting. She confided her per Newfoundland dog to the care of Mrs. Burki. The fine animal was chained up in the little stable in the rear of the bakery. Friday evening Lizzie Hennes, a maiden of thirty-one years, visited the stable yard. The dog had freed himself from his tether and he leaped upon Miss Hennes.

Miss Hennes shricked, and George Jaret. an employee of Burki, rushed to the rescue. He found girl and dog in a struggle, and with difficulty tore the animal away, and then not until Miss Hennes had been bitten severely on the left arm.

Dr. Buffe, of Prince street, was called and found three wounds on Lizzie's fair, plump arm. He cauterized the gashes, one of which was three inches long, and sewed up the would have obsyed, but some street urchins bothered him and the dog broke away, collar, chain and all.

Miss Hennes went to the Pasteur Hospital, but the physician there declined to inconlate her until it was ascertained if the dog was mad.

There was much excitement in the French quarter over the occurrence. Miss Hennes declared that she was stricken so badly that she must lose her time at her work and that meant the loss of $12 a week, besides the doctor's bill.

"I will pay your wases, $12 a week, and the doctor's bill." promptly responded liaker Burki, but Miss Hennes, whose left arm was hung in a sling, declined.

Burki consulted a lawyer and as the result called upon his neighbor and said; "I am a mau of peace. I want no trouble. I will give you $100, to pay you for your lost time and for the hurt that vou have received." "No, no" replied the injured Miss Lizus. "The dox was mad. I will have hydrophobia. Iou must see my lawyer." Whervas Burki advertised for the dog." "I will pay what the finder asks for the dog," said Mme. Burki this morning.

"Men have been here for the reward, but they bring no dog. They say he is—somewhere. I will pay no reward till I know it is the right dog. I do not want a dos. I want the dog.

Baker Burki smiled grimly on the reporter. "They may go to the City Hall, but I have soid out my business. I own nothing. George Rieche is the owner of the bakery. I was willing to do right, but I do not want to be ruined."

The reporter climbed the rickety stairs to Neighbor Hennes strooms. He found a sheet. butme.

"My daughter is out, but she is not able to work. If you want to know anything, you must see our lawyer, Mr. Henry Smith, of Broadway, He will tell you all."
Dr. Buppe says there is no danger of hydrophobia, for the wounds are already nearly healed.

There were five 'drunks," and a man who scattered dirt in the street to be disposed of.
Justice Meade indictally charged the 'drunks' $5 each for the trouble they had caused and fined the man who scattered dirt in the street $2.

Detectives Price and Mott having been unmile to find the owner of a watch which three small boys were trying to pawn Wednesday, Justice Meade told the boys that they would pewer mend their ways as they would surely be caught if they did not, and would just as surely be punished. Then he discharged them and adjourned court.

Instance L. Sept. 4.—A curious situation in the matter of the State's finances is revealed through Gov. Hovey's demand upon the State Treasurer for an installment of his salary. The Treasurer reported that it could not be paid, as he was combelled by law to hold the funds in his possession subject to the demands of the benevolent institutions, there being only enough money now in the treasury to pay their running expenses till funds were due from the countles. The Governor will make the refusal to pay his salary the basis of a suit on the ground that the law is unconstitutional and discriminates against other creditors of the States in favor of the benevolent institutions.
